DAILY LEVERAGE CERTIFICATES (DLCs)

Daily Leverage Certificates (DLCs) are designed to multiply the Daily Performance of an Underlying Asset by a factor, e.g. 3, 5 or 7 times. This means that for every $1 invested in a DLC, you can generate the same profit or loss as if you invested $3, $5 or $7 in the Underlying Asset directly*!

Example: If the Underlying Asset goes up by 1% today, your 5X Long DLC would go up by 5%. To put into dollar terms, say you buy a 5X Long DLC with $5,000 today when the Underlying Asset price is at 100. Tomorrow the Underlying Asset price goes up to 101 (up by 1%), your DLC investment value will increase to $5,250 before costs and fees (up by 5%). You will have generated a gain of $250* in this case. However, if the Underlying Asset price drops by 1%, your DLC investment value will drop to $4,750 before costs and fees (down by 5%). You will have generated a loss of $250* in this case.

Before Costs & Fees are factored in. Losses are leveraged as well as gains. When the investors trade intra-day (buying and selling the Daily Leverage Certificates on the same Trading Day), the costs are the brokerage fees, trading fees and Bid/Ask Spread from trading which are typically the same as trading stocks on the relevant exchange. When the Daily Leverage Certificates are held overnight, leverage and hedging costs and fees will apply, which include Funding Cost, Rebalancing Cost, Stock Borrowing Cost (for Short DLCs only), Gap Premium and Management Fee.*

LONG & SHORT

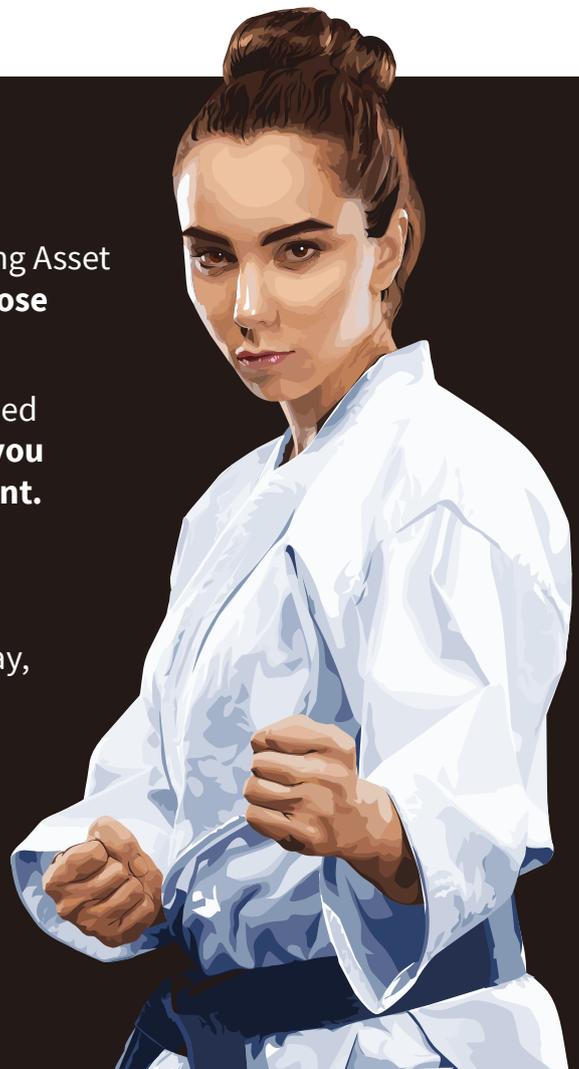

Long DLCs allow you to generate leveraged gains when the Underlying Asset goes up. On the other hand, Short DLCs increase in value when the Underlying Asset goes down, allowing investors to achieve positive and leveraged gains during market downturn. Conversely, you will sustain leveraged losses when the Underlying Asset goes down for Long DLCs, or when the Underlying Asset goes up for Short DLCs.

The information on this page is for illustrative purposes only, and is not indicative of future performance. Such information does not constitute or form part of any offer, or invitation, to subscribe for or to sell, or solicitation of any offer to subscribe for or to purchase, the DLCs at the price shown.

Q: I invested \$2,000 in a 7x Long DLC. If the Underlying Asset dropped by 15%, given $15\% \times 7 = 105\%$, would I lose more than my initial investment \$2,000?

A: No. DLCs are traded on the stock market (also called cash market). They cannot drop below zero. So you will never lose more than your initial investment. The maximum amount you will lose is your initial investment ($2,000 in this example). Moreover, for a 7x Long DLC on indices as an example, if the Underlying Asset drops by more than 10% intra-day, the Airbag Mechanism will be triggered and the exposure of the DLC to the Underlying Asset will be reduced, which “slows down” the loss if the Underlying Asset goes further against you. For more details about Airbag Mechanism please visit our website dlc.socgen.com.

RISK FACTORS

- Your capital is fully at risk, although you cannot lose more than you invest.
- Losses are leveraged as well as gains. As a result you could lose more than if you were to invest directly in the Underlying Asset.
- If DLCs are held for more than one day, gains and losses will be compounded; leverage and hedging costs and fees will apply when the DLCs are held overnight. The returns that you end up with could deviate from the leverage factor, i.e. it could be more than, or less than the return derived from the Underlying Asset performance.
